In compliance with "Copyright Law of the People's Republic of China", it is agreed by the author(s) of the said article to transfer the copyright of this article to the Editorial Department of Chemical Research in Chinese Universities, and to warrant the relevant issues as follows:

1. The said article is original and contains nothing confidential. The author(s) assume(s) all responsibility for any infringement or disclosure.
2. The said article has never in any form and in any language been submitted multiply or published anywhere. Otherwise, the Editorial Department has the right to chase the losses incurred and to report it within a certain scope.
3. The right of authorship of the said article is not controversial. After submission of the final draft, changes of authorship or in the order of the authors listed will not be accepted. If there are special circumstances, the representation of author affiliation must be provided and the consent of all authors is required. An unsigned author may authorize the corresponding author(s) to sign the Copyright Transfer Statement on his/her behalf and provide proof. If there is any dispute over the right of authorship, the author(s) assume(s) all responsibility.
4. The following worldwide exclusive rights carried by the said article in different languages are transferred to the Editorial Department: reproductions, distribution, electronic dissemination, translation and compilation.
5. The author(s) may not permit others to use the transfer copyrights mentioned in Article Four in any form. However, an author may quote (or translate) part of the article in his/her subsequent works or compile it in the non-periodical corpus.
6. If the Editorial Department does not provide the opinion on the said article within three months, the author(s) may process the article separately after declaring to the Editorial Department. The Copyright Transfer Statement is automatically terminated.
7. The Copyright Transfer Statement will take effect from the date of signature, and the place of performance is Changchun. The Copyright Transfer Statement is final and binding upon all the authors.
8. If there is any dispute, the two parties will resolve through negotiation; if the negotiation fails, it will be handled in accordance with "Copyright Law of the People's Republic of China" and relevant laws.
